ShootIt is a free and fun Widget to shoot holes in your desktop. All you have to do is to select your favourite ammo and click on your desktop. To clear off the holes, click the reset button. To close the Widget, click on the buckle or right-click on the belt itself. This release adds the ability to easily add ammo types. Look for "AmmoPaks" in the Gallery. The widget shoots in a fixed direction, so you don't have to move the mouse around. However, it will not work on all browsers or with some other screen protectors. Note: While this widget is currently available only for PC users, Mac users can still click on the different cartridges (much like the homepage; it is simply that they would have the ammo "pop-up" in the center of the desktop), but the bullets won't shoot.

Omahounds is a fun and visually appealing (3D) game of life that is simple to play and even more appealing to watch. The concept of the game is simple: there are 25 animals on a board. At the beginning of the game the board is completely empty and every animal will be labeled as being lucky, unlucky or simply a neutral (no fate). During the game animals can be mated and babies can be born. Hormones and sex change animals, be happy or sad, and there is no such thing as time. It's a real-life, sometimes based on real-life animals, virtual jungle. Omahounds is a web widget providing an easy way for people to experience the world of the Omahounds board game. Omahounds is a winning combination: lots of fun for people with any age, and a great way for game studios to monetize their games to a brand new audience.

This is the second and last widget I made using the Yahoo Widget Engine. The first one was "Spilina" and it does not work anymore. Sadly, the whole thing is written in Javascript and was very hard to make. This one is much easier
