I have read that for flvtoavi there is a command line program. xfit vid I am trying to make a linux script to convert avi files to ogg files. I have found a program that works (audacity). But i am trying to use a command line, xfit vid which I think is reading the avi file and playing it automatically. But I have not found the way to change this. And for converting I am trying to use ffmpeg but I am getting many errors. I have also found in this link the term "ffmpeg av2ogg", but I do not know what is meant by this. I hope someone can help me. A: Well, FFmpeg is actually a toolset that allows you to build various output formats (as you can also see in the output of ffmpeg --version). ffmpeg can do the conversion from AVI to OGG, which is an interesting and easy way to convert avi to ogg. You can run this command: ffmpeg -i video_file -f ogg -acodec ogg_codec audio_file.ogg And it should work, although I don't really know what you want with the script you're trying to write. Note that ffmpeg is mostly a command line tool, in the past I used to have a GUI for it, which allowed me to simply type "ffmpeg" and the command would take care of everything. But I don't know if it's still available.
